Lost in Screen

From morning sun to late at night,
 A shining screen feels very bright.
 Fingers scroll, the hours pass,
 While books and dreams just fade so fast.
 Classrooms call with lessons new,
 But ringing phones distract us too.
 Pages turn, then quickly close,
 When a message suddenly shows.
 Eyes feel tired, minds feel slow,
 Real talks end, feelings go low.

Games replace outdoor play,
 And useful time just slips away.
 Put the phone down, look around,
 Learning waits where books are found.
 Use the phone, but stay in control,
 Don't let screens rule your goal.
 Balance life with care and thought,
 Build a future you have sought.
 Learn and grow and always try—
 That's how students reach the sky.
