

● Conclusion :

This study highlights the importance of assessing both mental attitude and behavior to support children's holistic development. Teachers and parents can use these questionnaires to identify students' emotional strengths and behavioral needs. Early guidance and positive reinforcement can nurture confidence, self-control, and motivation in young learners, helping them grow into responsible and emotionally balanced individuals.

Topic : A study of the reason and solutions for why students do not do their homework regularly.

❖ Introduction :

Education has become very important in today's era. Teachers give homework to students so that they can progress further in their studies and develop a deeper understanding of the study. But many times some students do not take homework seriously and do not follow it properly.

❖ Why and how did you choose the subject?

Both the education system and the student's curriculum are important today. Homework is considered an essential part of education, as it helps students understand their learning ability and responsibility.

❖ Analysis of information

❖ Result

Many students do not understand the importance of doing homework, which may lead to low motivation levels. Some students do not know how to plan their time properly, which may lead to them not doing homework on time. Lack of family support Due to lack of adequate guidance and support related to education at home, students are not enthusiastic about completing homework. Lack of interest in the subject is due to students not being interested in the subject, so they are not motivated to do homework. High academic load puts a lot of pressure on the student, which causes them to get tired and not do homework on time.

❖ Conclusion

The main reasons for students not completing homework may be lack of motivation, time management problems, insufficient support from family, lack of interest in the subject, academic load and socio-cultural conditions. It is necessary for the teacher and family to work together to provide proper guidance and support to solve this problem.

❖ Suggestion for future research

Research can be done to find out what the educational environment or situation is like in the students' families and how it affects homework. Detailed research can be done on how students organize their time, and what guidelines can be given to improve their time management skills.
